Background

Smoking is the leading cause of preventable death and disease in Australia, killing an estimated 19,000 Australians a year.¹ Most adult smokers report trying their first cigarette as a teen. Although smoking rates² among 12-17 years olds in NSLHD and CCLHD is the lowest in NSW at 4.1% (much lower than NSLHD adults at 9.5%), each of our Youth Consultants could share anecdotes of friends they knew who smoked but wouldn't identify as a smoker as they saw themselves as just 'social smokers' i.e. smoke only in social contexts. Given two in three young people in Victoria believe social smoking is not very harmful³, there is a potential gap in appropriate messaging to those that smoke every 'now and then'. There is also cause for concern in regards to social smokers later transitioning into more frequent or daily smoking.

Purpose of this report

The aim of this report is to present the findings of a pilot survey conducted with young people in Northern Sydney to explore the prevalence of social smoking.

Methods

Northern Sydney Youth Health Promotion surveyed young people on three separate occasions.

- Manly Corso on Friday 13th September 2019 between 7pm and 9pm. 131 people surveyed.
- Macquarie University on Monday 4th November 2019 between 12pm and 2pm. 97 people surveyed.
- Chatswood CBD on Thursday 14th November 2019 between 6pm and 8pm. 88 people surveyed.

Young people who agreed to participate in the survey were asked a series of questions which aimed to shed light on social smoking behaviour and how young people identified as a smoker or non-smoker. The survey also aimed to see if those that identified as social smokers perceived the habit as a risk to their health. The only socio-demographic information collected was age and gender.

Published questionnaires about smoking were reviewed to assist the development of questions. Multiple people within Health Promotion provided feedback on survey questions and a test pilot of the survey was conducted at St Leonards Forum. The test pilot and feedback resulted in the rewording of some questions.

NSYHP approached people they believed fell within our target group of approximately 15-24 years old. Participants were asked set questions and their responses entered into an online survey by NSYHP team members.

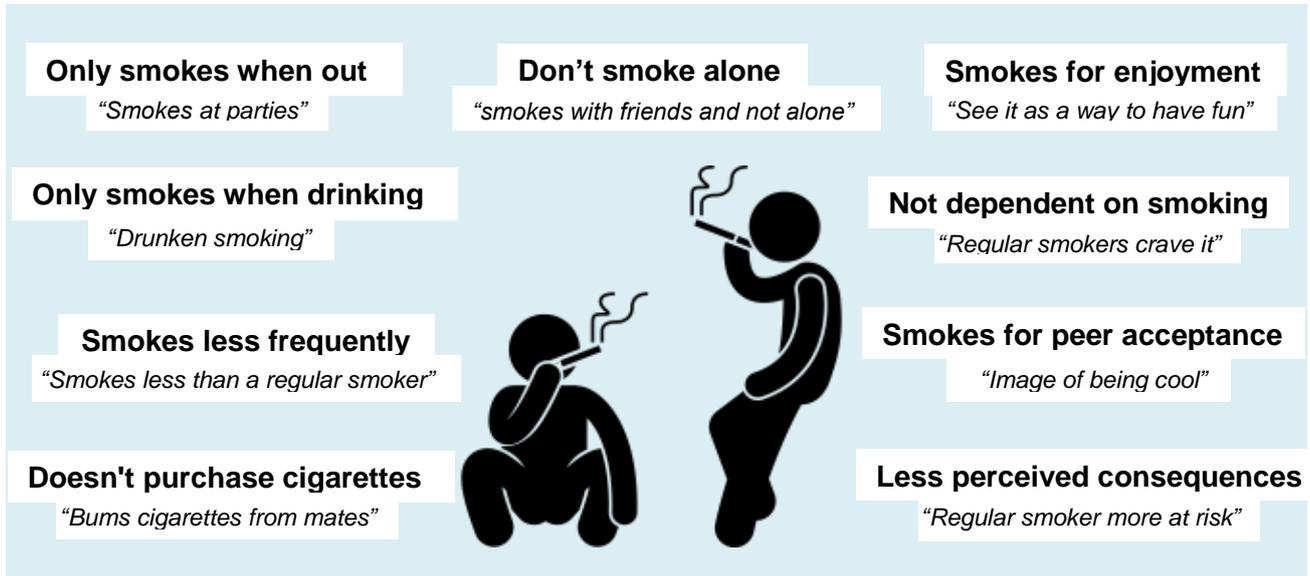

Results

Participants

In total, 316 people were surveyed. 94% (n=298) fell within our target age range of 14 to 24. Nearly 6% of those surveyed (n=18) were aged 25 or over. Just over half of the 316 surveyed were female 51% with 49% identified as males. See appendix 1 for full results.

How do young people define social smoking?

All young people surveyed were asked how they would define a social smoker as opposed to regular smoker. The common themes drawn from the responses include the following:

Interestingly, those that identified as social smokers were more likely to differentiate social smokers from regular smokers due to lack of dependence on nicotine. Those that identified as a smoker were more likely to define social smokers as those that don't purchase their own cigarettes.

Prevalence of Social Smoking

Overall approximately 32% (n=101) of those surveyed identified as some type of smoker (smoker, social smoker or vaper). The highest proportion, one in every five people surveyed (n=66), identified as social smokers. One-quarter (n=4) of those who identified as a vaper, also identified as a social smoker. See figure 1.

*: Does not equal 100% as respondents could identify as more than one e.g. smoker and vaper

Those that considered themselves social smokers were slightly more likely to be male (60%) than female (40%).

Social smoking appeared to be quite common among those young people surveyed with nearly 83% of those surveyed saying they have friends that are social smokers.

Smoking Behaviours

41% of those surveyed had smoked a cigarette in the last year. See figure 2.

Thinking of the last year, on average how often do you smoke cigarettes?

The vast majority of “smokers” said that they smoked cigarettes either every day (70.4%) or most days (22.2%).

Of “social smokers” surveyed, the majority reported smoking cigarettes once or twice a week (42.4%), followed by few times in a month (22.7%), and then once every few months (18.2%). However 15% of “social smokers” in this survey reported smoking cigarettes either ever day (6%) or most days (9%), simulating behaviours more aligned with regular or daily smokers.

Interestingly, approximately 18% (n=34) of those that considered themselves a “non-smoker” later reported smoking in the last year (Figure 3). The majority of these who identified as non-smokers reported smoking when out or with friends (figure 4). This potentially increases the percentage of social smokers surveyed from 20.9% to 31.6%.

The vast majority (77.27%) of social smokers identified smoking when they go out (e.g. bars, clubs, parties and social occasions). See figure 5. The majority of smokers (74%) selected all of the above (figure 6).

Perceived risk of harm

Those that were identified as smokers, social smokers or vapers were asked if they thought their current level of smoking was harmful to their health. (Figure 7).

50% of social smokers did not think that their current smoking habits were harmful to their health, compared with 7.4% of regular smokers.

Do you think your current level of smoking is harmful to your health?

Answered: 101 Skipped: 0

Differences in survey areas

Manly Corso had the highest proportion of social smokers with 28%, followed by Chatswood CBD with 17% and Macquarie Uni with 14%. This disparity is possibly caused by the fact that the survey was conducted later at night, and in an area where young people are out with their friends and drinking.

Next Steps

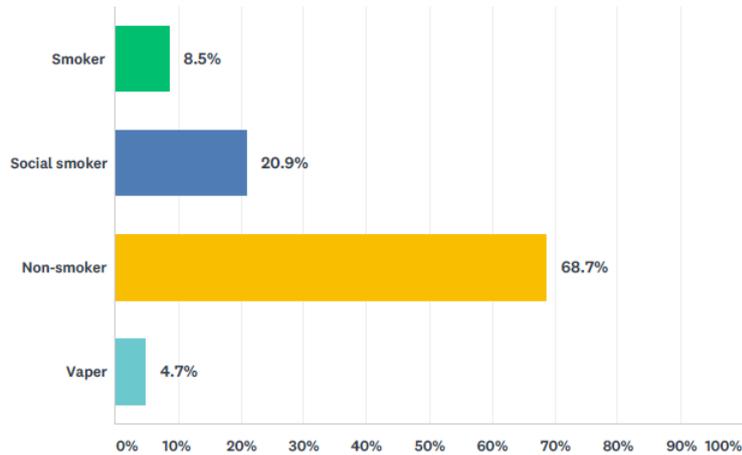

The results of this survey justify the need to further explore the issue of young people and social smoking in Northern Sydney. This will be done through the Social Smokers are Smokers pilot project which aims to co-design and test a campaign with the Youth Consultants. Next steps are as follows:

- Use findings from the focus group with Youth Consultants to mock up potential campaign messages / concepts and test with wider audience
- Adapt or create campaign
- Test campaign with young people within Manly
